Santa Rosa County Public Services Selects Employee of the Year

Santa Rosa County's Public Services Department selected Jennifer Tilden as employee of the year for 2015. Tilden, who has served the county as zoning administrator since January 2013, was recognized by the board of county commissioners at the January 28 meeting.

Tilden has consistently performed beyond expectations and shows excellent customer service skills as demonstrated by her many customer comment cards. Her responsibilities include working with customers, responding to zoning inquiries, processing applications, performing residential zoning reviews, and assigning addresses to new developments - all with a high level of professionalism.

"In applying the Land Development Code and problem solving, Jennifer consistently demonstrates an ability to think well. She is gracious in working with both internal and external customers and consistently maintains a positive attitude," said Beckie Cato, director of community planning, zoning and development for the county.
