Testing to Become a Licensed Construction Contractor in Santa Rosa County

To begin the process of becoming a licensed construction contractor you are required to take 2 examinations: one for your trade and one for Business & Law. Santa Rosa County will serve as your examination sponsor. The cost of sponsorship is $100 to complete your registration with our testing partner ProV. Without a sponsor there is no means of advancing toward licensure.

For more information on the test agency, such as exam options, books, and practice exams you can take, please visit the website below. This site also has bulletins available that outline the reference materials allowed in the testing center for the exam you wish to take. Please note that Santa Rosa County does not issue competency cards for all exams listed; we test under the most current building/electrical codes; and you must pass both examinations with a minimum score of 75.0%.

The temporary competency card, which you receive from Santa Rosa County after passing the trade and Business & Law exams, is only one item in a list of several that the State requires in order for you to receive your contractor's license number/card. For information on what the State requirements are to become a registered contractor, please visit the following site and click on "Apply for a License"
